

1nService CEO Elected to NSCA Board

Paul Cronin will serve two-year term as NSCA Board Member

Bellevue, WA. – 1nService is proud to announce its CEO, Paul Cronin, has been elected to the Board of Directors for the National Systems Contractors Association (NSCA).

“Paul’s participation on the NSCA Board of Directors represents the changing scope of the commercial electronic systems industry,” said Chuck Wilson, NSCA executive director. “His experience with both IT and physical security, as well as his partnerships and success in these converging sectors, truly represents the next generation of business owners.”

With more than 25 years of experience in the IT industry, Paul Cronin represents the changing scope of the commercial electronic systems industry. His experience in both IT and physical security will allow NSCA to expand its member services to benefit these technology sectors of the industry. Cronin will also provide his broad knowledge of new revenue channels and business opportunities.

“I look forward to leveraging my 25 years of industry experience to provide innovative ideas that will help to expand the diversification of NSCA’s members and programs.” Cronin said.

About NSCA

NSCA is the leading not-for-profit association representing the commercial electronic systems industry. With more than 2,500 member companies worldwide, the National Systems Contractors Association is a powerful advocate of all who work within the low-voltage industry, including systems contractors/integrators, product manufacturers, consultants, sales representatives, architects, specifying engineers and other allied professionals. NSCA is dedicated to serving its members and stakeholders through education, advocacy, outreach and member services. Offering its own certification program, the Electronic Systems Technician (EST) and an extensive library of courses within six professional colleges of the NSCA University, NSCA members are trained on topics from sales to business management to technical knowledge. NSCA provides leading industry research and market intelligence, insurance solutions through its SystemsPlus™ Insurance Solutions program, and the industry’s most comprehensive manual of practice, Essentials of Systems Integration™ Online, as well as other business tools.
